

Forget
Quitting Quilting

Back Story

Client contacted me about getting his mom's house ready to put on the market. He has 2 siblings that live out of town. He and his wife both work full time so time spent working in the house was limited. Time was fleeting with the housing market the way it was at the time. Although they did eventually sell, they missed the prime time for sellers.

His mom was a quilter!! She had this super fancy quilting frame thing that would have to have a lot of space so finding a home was very difficult. Some of the furniture was hard to find homes for due to them being "brown" and bulky. Several pieces went home FREE with very happy and appreciative people.

We didn't have too many leftovers. Just a couple of hours of finishing up.
